

CALL FOR WORKSHOPS

The Black Doctoral Network Conference Committee invites workshop proposals for the 2022 conference themed, Black Excellence, Brilliant Minds: The Power of Diversity, on October 27-29, 2022 in Atlanta, Georgia. The annual meeting is an interdisciplinary event that brings together academics and professionals from the social sciences, STEM, and humanities fields.

Workshops provide opportunities for professional development through hands-on training and engage participants in focused discussions that offer new knowledge and resources. We welcome workshop proposals on any topic relevant to our conference attendees (undergraduate, graduate, doctoral, and professional students, faculty and other professionals in and outside of academia). Previously accepted workshops included sessions on qualitative, quantitative, and mixed methodology, academic publishing, grant proposal writing, financial literacy, and dissertation boot camp. We especially welcome workshops on the following topics: Student Homelessness and what schools and communities can do to provide solutions, the great resignation and the rise of hybrid and remote work, career progressions in government (federal, state and local), public and private sectors, the influence of physical and mental health programs on employee retention and performance, addressing health disparities in communities of color, closing the learning gap, latest developments in STEM, leveraging social media trends for business marketing and advertising, pathways to tenured faculty positions, gun reform, and the next steps after doctoral degree completion.

Workshops will be scheduled during the afternoons on Thursday, October 27, Friday, October 28, and Saturday, October 29. Each workshop is one hour in length. The workshop presenters can decide on the exact format of their session, but we encourage an interactive approach that engages participants in practical ways as much as possible.
